Genoua, Aug. 16.

THE Senate have finally diſpatched their Envoy to the Court of Franne; we long to hear of his arrival there, and of the ſucceſs he is like to have in his Commiſſion; and we hope a way will be found to accommodate the preſent differences, which have already occaſioned the loſs of ſeveral of our ſhips, taken by the French, and may have yet worſe conſequences; for they write from Provence, that ten Men of War more were fitting out there, which are to be added to the Squadron commanded by the Sieur du Queſne. By a Veſſel arrived from Palermo, we underſtand, that the Prince of Monteſarchio, General of the Gallies, was arrived there from Spain, and that he was going thence to Meſſina, with monies to pay the Militia. The Grand-Duke of Florence has been ſomewhat indiſpoſed; four of his Gallies are joined with four more of Maltha, and are gone to cruiſe upon the Turks.

Diuo, Aug. 24. The 21 inſtant, about the 16 hour, the French Squadron that hath been ſome time on this Coaſt, came to an anchor as nigh as they could to St. Remo: about the 21 hour the Admiral put up a red Flag, and all the other ſhips did preſently the like, and fired all together into the Town, and ſo continued three hours, but did little damage, ſave only to three or four of the beſt houſes, and to a ſhip they had chaſed in, whoſe Maſts they ſhot down, and killed four Men; about Sun-ſet the Admiral put out his white Colours, when all the ſhips left off ſhooting, and a little after put out Blew, when all, except two, ſet ſail, who continued to batter the Town two or three hours in the night; in all this time there was not one ſhot made at them from the ſhore.

Vienna, Aug. 25. Since our laſt ſeveral Envoys are arrived here from the Electors and other Princes of the Empire, who came to congratulate with the Emperor upon the Birth of his Son the Archduke, Yeſterday arrived here the Count de Belloſi from Hungary, and brought the Emperor an account, that the Rebels having beſieged Eſperies, had upon the approach of the Imperial Troops raiſed the Siege in great diſorder, and about 600 men, who were killed or taken priſoners by the Imperialiſts; by which we ſee how ungrounded the report of Eſperies being taken was. Yeſterday arrived an Expreſs from Nimeguen, with Letters from our Ambaſſadors there.

Copenhagen, Aug. 30. The King continues with his Army, which is at preſent encamped near Landſcroon. Lieutenant-General Arenſdorf is in diſgrace, and the command of the Army taken from him; he is, among other things, charged, that he might have relieved Chriſtianſtadt, which, it's ſaid, was once in his power, and, as we are told, he will be brought to a trial before a Council of War. Yeſterday the Great Chancellor, and others of the Kings Council, went hence to the Army, and this day the ſaid Lieutenant-General Arenſdorf, who was under an Arreſt here, was ſent for thither. Our Fleet is on the Coaſt of Rugen, and we are in expectation to hear of an attempt made by them and the Brandenburgs on that Iſland. The Suedes Army, conſiſting in 18000 men, is advancing towards Landſcroon, and is come within two Leagues of our Army.

Strasburg, Aug. 29. This City is in a manner blocked up, at leaſt we are deprived of all Trade and Commerce, for though the Mareſchal de Crequi be advanced beyond Haguenaw, and according to our laſt advices, was encamped at Werdt, ye the Sieur de Monelar continues in our Neighborhood, to intercept our Commerce, and does what he can to ſhut us up, which does more and more exaſperate theſe Inhabitants againſt the French, and they are ſo far from being induced by what they ſuffer to enter into meaſures with the Mareſchal de Crequi, that they will rather hazard all by entring into the cloſeſt Engagements with the Imperialiſts. Theſe conſiderations hath had the effect, which all the inſtances that have heretofore been made by the Imperial Miniſters, wanted, to wit, to bring an Imperial Gariſon into this City. The parties which go out very frequently, do very much incommode the French, and having beaten ſeveral French parties, the Mareſchal de Crequi hath been ſo much offended thereat, as to cauſe a Declaration to be publiſhed, by which he commands his Troops to treat the Inhabitants of this City as declared Enemies; and all the Merchandiſes which our Merchants had at Colmar, Schleſtadt, and in other places belonging to the French, are ſeized. We have not any news from the Imperial Army, farther than that they were marching towards the Rhine, in order to the paſſing it.

Francois Sire de Crequi, Mareſchal of France, Governor of the Dutchies of Lorrain and Barr, General of the Kings Army in Germany.

WHereas we find, that the City of Strasburg doth break the Neutrality which we have hitherto ſo carefully obſerved with them, and that notwithſtanding the requeſt they made to us by Letters written ſince the taking of the Bridge, that we would not commit any Acts of Hoſtilities, and even not interrupt their Commerce, they have not forborn to make attempts upon his Majeſties Troops. To remedy which Inconveniencies, we do moſt expreſly forbid, on pain of death, the Inhabitants of Saverne, and of the neighbouring Places, and all others of Alſace, even thoſe that depend on Strasburg, to have any Commerce with the ſaid City of Strasburg, directly or indirectly, command them to ſtop all Couriers and others going to the ſaid City of Strasburg, and to put them and their Pacquets, to wit, they of Saverne, and of the neighbouring Places, into the hands of the Commander of the ſaid Saverne, and they of other Places into the hands of the Commander of the Places neareſt to thoſe where the
